Earth Hour: Saturday, March 27, 8:30-9:30 p.m. Lights Out!

On Earth Hour millions of people around the world will join together to turn of their lights for one hour to encourage others to take action and raise awareness about climate change and the greenhouse effect. For one hour last year, lights went out at the Sydney Opera House, the Coliseum in Rome, The Royal Castle in Stockholm, The Sears Tower in Chicago and the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco. Many communities joined this event last year and had a great time creating "family fun" without using electricity.
